

East German Guards Told To Use Guns

BERLIN, Jan. 23 (UPI) — East German border guards have ordered to shoot or "abduct" "dead or alive" any West Berliner who crosses them, two senior border police officers said today.

The two senior guards, 20 and 21, told an old friend, Jan. 3 from a Soviet zone to West Berlin, they addressed a secret meeting after conference that morning.

They agreed the East German government prepared citizens for formal military combat expected to be directed by their communist-controlled "puppet" parliament to "kill us before beginning our border duty," they said.

"First we will fire a warning shot, and then direct shots, in any case we were to haul out of West Berlin any wounded or dead. No one should remain over there."

The guards identified themselves as Hartmut, 20, and Gerd, 21. They asked that their names be withheld to protect their relatives in East Germany.

BURLEY Club Hears About Russ Citizen

BURLEY, Jan. 23.—White and red club members heard information about Russian people from first hand experiences before the iron curtain of the Chinese, Communists, and the Kansan, Chinese, man, whose association is writing and speaking to groups of people on this subject. He addressed the club Friday night, for which there was a full house.

Crutcher first became interested in the United States during the Korean war when he was in the navy and went on mission to Korea.

He returned several times to gain more personal knowledge.

Crutcher stated that only about three and one-half or four percent of the Russian people belong to the communist party. He has interviewed Khrushchev and many men in the Kremlin.

Russia has a universal compulsory education program through the eighth grade. They raise the importance of education and the importance of education that through this medium the Russian people are already reaching out for more freedom.

Russian people have experienced the same kind of life and since World War II they have received most material benefits than they had in the past, he stated.

They now have a fairly adequate standard of living. The cost of a adequate housing is still a big problem. Many families live under one roof sharing facilities. They are extremely interested in their children's education.

Crutcher told of a reciprocal exhibit, where a complete six-room typical American home was shown. As Russians went through the house, they asked how many families lived in such a home.

They felt it was capitalistic propaganda when they were told it was a one-family home. The house had two bedrooms, two bathrooms for just one family.

Crutcher found the Russians friendly, talkative and eager to talk about their country. They also love American jazz. They asked questions about American clothing, materials and cost of clothing as shown.

It takes a man's salary of an average worker in Russia to buy a pair of shoes while in America about two and one-half hours of work to buy a pair, the speaker declared.

Willard Hayward, club president, introduced the speaker to the audience. Mr. Crutcher, after the interview, before dinner.

The next Kluge and Park Club meeting will be held at the Elks Club, Feb. 12, when Robert Delbig will be the speaker.

2 Named to Idaho Dairy
Hall of Fame

POCATELLO, Jan. 23 (UPI) — Mrs. Frank Golden, Boise, and Aloys Schuler, Nampa, were selected to the Idaho Dairy Hall of Fame Monday during the eighth annual meeting of the Idaho Dairymen's association.

Mrs. Golden, widow of the late Frank Golden, is the first woman in the hall of fame.

She and her husband operated a successful dairy farm from 1911 until Golden's death in 1950. Mrs. Golden has been secretary of county and state Quernay for many years, and has been secretary of the National Fieldman.

She also has been secretary to the manager of the Western Idaho State fair for many years.

Schuler started a registered Holstein herd in New Plymouth in 1915.

One of his cows made a record 1,200 pounds of butterfat.

At a luncheon Monday, William C. Bell, president of the American Dairy Association, emphasized the need for promotion and progress in the dairy industry.

Hills said consumption of dairy products has gone down during the past few years and related to synthetics, competition from other foods and a need for new dairy production methods of processing problems which the industry must meet.

Two other speakers discussed the problem of the radiation danger in food and the connection between milk fat and heart disease.

Douglas Fish, regional manager of the National Dairy Council, Denver, said consumers do not have to fear fallout in milk or any other food, since the radiation is very small.

He said cows filter out about seven-tenths of the radiation which is present on roughage from fall.

Ernest B. Kellogg, director of technical services, Milk Industry Foundation, Washington, D.C., said the amount of radiation seems to be veering away from the idea that milk fat is connected with heart disease, but the industry is left with the stigma of being linked with the confidence of the people.

Antos, aside from a 1 1/2 point gain, was nearly a point among the internationals; oil on a dividend boost and increased earnings.

IBM featured the electronics with a loss of one point despite a solid boost. Litton, Beckman and Fairchild Camera were of more than two at their lows, the third circled 10 points, and recommended DuPont rose a point or so in the aircrafts and United added a good fraction to its earnings.

But the market, which had been in a group of its own despite fractional weakness.

Beach and Gerber in the food, Goodrich in the rubber, and the domestic oil companies in the aviations and loan groups, Consumer Power in the utilities, and Interpace and May in the plastics trends for the day were mixed with declines around two or more.

Simonds Saw, a specialty steel, which announced plans for a stock split, rose 1 1/2 points but Burlington, which had been unmotivated despite a sharp rise in first fiscal quarter earnings on record sales.
